Decision

Rationale/Basis for Decision

The ___ physician reviewer noted that this case concerns a 48 year-old female who sustained a work related injury to her lumbar back on ___. The ___ physician reviewer also noted that the diagnoses for this patient included right lumbar facet syndrome, right suprascapular neuritis and trapezial trigger points and left C6-7 protrusion. The ___ physician reviewer further noted that treatment for this patient's condition has included physical therapy that included heat, ultrasound, adjustments, a home exercise program and work conditioning. The ___ physician reviewer explained that there is no reasonable rationale for lumbar facet injections.

The ____ physician reviewer also explained that efficacy of this procedure either as a diagnostic or therapeutic procedure, is lacking. Therefore, the ____ physician consultant concluded that the requested bilateral facet injections at the L3-S1 level are not medically necessary to treat this patient's condition at this time.
